

New Day Is For You!

Spiritual Transformation for leaders and congregations

Here's your invitation to new life in God, spiritual transformation. In the New Day retreats, we are connected to God and one another in a new way and connected with what God wants us to do – individually and as a church.

There's still time to join! We're offering a mini-retreat on June 17 & 18 in Decatur. And the second retreat is July 15-17 in Carlinville.

It starts with you. It is an invitation to go deeper in our faith, practicing our ways of being closer to God. It involves letting go of what we've been doing in order to do something greater, something more faithful and effective. It blesses our lives and the lives of your congregation with prayer and other spiritual practices, rest, new insights, new energy!

In the New Day retreats, we create an atmosphere open to God's transforming power. Together we pray, listen to God, experiment with new ideas, and focus on ministry opportunities outside and inside the congregation. We offer a variety of experiences – worship, conversation, listening to one another, prayer, rest, writing, being quiet. We make friends with wonderful spiritual companions, folks we've never met and now we share a journey together.

We have new energy for the faithful path ahead. We have abundant resources and partners to travel with us on this adventure. The Regional church is making a huge investment in your spiritual journey!

REGIONAL MINISTER'S MOMENT

Rev. Dr. Teresa Dulyea-Parker

Psalm 46 Revisited

When I began serving as Regional Minister, Psalm 46 rose up as a guiding light in the midst of all that was tumultuous. "God is our refuge and strength in times of trouble. God is in the midst of the holy city as a river to make it habitable. Though mountains and kingdoms totter, God is still God. Be still and know that I am God."

The wonder of the Psalm speaks to great anxiety in every age. It is not just individuals who are shaken by anxious time. Kingdoms, even mountains and oceans are thrown into an uproar. The temptation in an age of anxiety is to forget God: to try to assert ourselves in God's place; to hold on to what we can; to push away and build barriers to what we can't control; to promote leaders who promise to stop the shaking, who use power to bully; to dis-connect from who we are and the power of love that calls us to "be still and know that I am God."

We are living through anxious times when many are forgetting our divine relationship. In the desire to be harmonious, a lot of us have kept silent when bitter words have been spoken. In the hope of not-excluding, we have let mean-spiritedness pass without challenging its core-spirit. In the desire to sow love, we have let bad behavior go un-checked. As if kindness and generosity are enough to change the heart of a bully bound by the disease of the "isms" that plague our day.

Bully-isms don't just go away. There is a reason they are called demons, principalities and powers. They won't go away even when called to account by love, kindness and generosity---on the part of one person. It takes a whole community saying, "No." Not just once, but many times over.

Recently, the Rev. Dr. Christal L. Williams posted on her Facebook page an encounter with a man who was eating food from a dumpster. She caught sight of him and was so startled by what he was doing that she cried out, "No." "No, you can't eat that. No, you are a human being and this is not right. No, you are God's child. No." It was a gut-level righteous response.

This poor guy had no chance. Dr. Williams was about to raise him up. And, she did---she gave him money and told him "to go over to that restaurant and watch them cook you a hot meal." In other words, you are a human being and this (especially in this country) is not acceptable. "No."

No, is a word we need to hear. A word we need to speak to powers and principalities disguised in phrases like "freedom of expression" and "unity in diversity." Unity/Wholeness isn't sameness, but neither does it allow the degradation or humiliation of our neighbors. Freedom of expression that damages the made-in-God's-image of our neighbors diminishes the true freedom we have received in Christ.

As Disciples, we are called to speak a clear "no" to degradation, humiliation, and mean-spirited sectarianism. "No" to anything that denies the humanity of our neighbors. "No" to all that denies our essential connection to one another. "No" to any person or group that claims the power of God for themselves to the exclusion of others.

That is why, normally quiet, kind-hearted, reasonable and relationally centered folk like Disciples are standing up in the public eye to say, "No." It's about God being God, and human beings honoring the dignity of each life, even those that are different from ours.

Celebrating a new congregation's vitality

Rebecca and Luke Sumner wanted to do a new thing, to start a ministry where everyone is invited to feast with Jesus. They planted Our Common Table in North Everett, Washington, a ministry where all are welcomed and no one is excluded.

According to Rebecca during the first year the couple hosted many events in the neighborhood, met with people, volunteered at various places, served on boards and did what they could to get to know the people in the area, while listening and searching for God's direction as they continued to serve.

Luke and Rebecca are entering the second year of ministry and Our Common Table (formerly Everett Christian Church), has established itself as a Christian community focused on welcome and justice. With many partners, including the Northwest Region of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) and Everett United Church of Christ, Our Common Table has launched evening worship in combination with a community meal, an open hospitality space with special attention to welcoming neighbors who are experiencing houselessness or poverty, and other initiatives.

Recently, Luke and Rebecca attended Hope Partnership for Missional Transformation's Leadership Academy and are featured in the 2016 Pentecost Offering video. According to Gilberto Collazo, president of Hope Partnership, we are thankful to Rebecca and Luke Sumner for taking the time to share their new church journey in support of the Pentecost Offering. "They have demonstrated a strong spirit of collaboration and willingness to share their experience and are a testimony to others who may be inspired by their faithful journey," he says. Each year the Pentecost Offering, a special offering of the Christian Church, raises funds for the new church ministry movement. One half of the offering is designated to the Region or Area in which the offering is taken, while the other half is used by Hope Partnership to support the recruitment, assessment, training and coaching of new church leaders. To view the Pentecost Offering video visit www.hopepmt.org. To learn more about Our Common Table Rebecca visit www.ourcommontablechurch.org.

Come to Camp

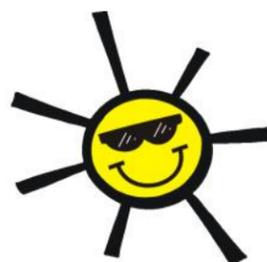

It's almost summer! that means no more pencils, no more books, and no more teachers dirty looks! summer is such a magical time of the year. The weather is mostly beautiful and each day is made into a new adventure. Some of my best summers have been spent in the neighborhood I grew up in, riding my bike, jumping on a trampoline, swimming, and exploring the woods in my neighborhood with my friends. There is nothing like summer as a kid. One thing that I never experienced as a kid until the tail end of my teen years was camp.

Camp was the one thing that was missing from my childhood experience. I experienced one year as a true camper, and during that week I kept asking myself, why haven't I gone to camp before? My church camp experience was great as a camper, but as a counselor it was made into such a rich opportunity. It has been my mission as a counselor/director/ program director to get kids interest in camp. It's not solely because I don't want them to miss out on the experience that I missed out on, but because at camp you meet God in a different way, a way that you haven't quite encountered God before at church.

A lot of ministers will say that they received their call to ministry at camp, or that they were saved, or baptized. Not me though, it was at camp that I realized I wanted to work with youth of all ages and share my faith with them. It didn't matter what I did for a living, but if I could just form a bond with these kids, form a relationship with them and tell them about Jesus, that was my mission in life. It just so happened that I eventually did receive my call to ministry and have been blessed with the opportunity to share the message of the gospel for a living.

Camp isn't just somewhere we go, but a place where we grow in some way. You can be shy and your camp experience encourage you to be a little more outgoing. You may be struggling with some issues in your personal life, camp is a place where you can go and share those struggles with a community that can help you and guide you to make the right decisions. Camp could be a place where you first really hear the gospel and see it lived out. In our culture, camp is an important part of our Christian journey. For some, it's so important that Camp is more than just a place, but a home. Please consider camp this year, invite your friends, invite your enemy's, invite someone who needs camp. Don't let the cost of camp keep you from coming. We have scholarships, talk to your ministers, we'll make sure you get to camp. If you're afraid of being an outcast, don't be! Jesus was an outcast, and the beautiful thing about camp, is that we've all been the outcast at some point because of what we believe. Don't be the only thing standing in the way of having a life changing experience. Come to camp!

Jared Reno, Camp Program Coordinator

The Regional Church Council of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in Illinois and Wisconsin is pleased to offer ten (10) individual grants of $2,000 to Disciple congregations in our Region to support ministries and programs designed to build relationships, foster inclusion, and provide hospitality to our neighbors in the community.

 - 3) creative ministry—willing to take risks
 - 4) missioned focused—outward focused beyond our doors
 - 5) multicultural and interconnected worldview—recognition of the beloved community.
